

Sport & Exercise Science

Employability & Enterprise at BHASVIC

You will gain many transferable skills studying Sport & ES that will be valued in the workplace including:

Research & analytical skills, critically evaluating information, designing research studies, data handling, problem solving, decision making, leadership, time management, communication

Studying sport science provides a great basis on which to build a career in the sports industry, as well as highly transferable business & management skills

Jobs where a Sport & Exercise Science degree would be useful include:

- Event manager
- Health promotion specialist
- Higher education lecturer
- Outdoor activities/education manager
- Sport and exercise psychologist

Career Prospects

One of the fastest growing subjects in the country, the number of sports science graduates at university has grown nearly four times from 2003. However this is a subject with many pathways, and studying at A level / BTEC is likely to give lots of opportunities.

However, the good news is the country's appetite for good health and fitness means that sports science students are less likely than average to be out of work. Sports science students, not surprisingly, tend to get jobs in sport and fitness, coaching and teaching especially, but they're found all over the economy. Management is also a popular option for students from this subject – after all, this is a subject for people who want to motivate others!
