

Modern Foreign Languages

Higher Education at BHASVIC 2019

In Sept 2019, 33 MFL students went onto study language related degrees at 18 different universities.

Cambridge and Liverpool are the most popular universities for MFL in 2019.

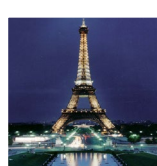

Our students often gain very attractive offers from prestigious universities who are keen to recruit to MFL courses.

Should I study Languages at degree level?

Would you like to develop your written and spoken language skills so you could live or work in another country? Are you interested in learning about history, literature and culture?

Usually around eight hours of classes a week, including tutorials & lectures. Assignments are often translations or comprehensions. Courses often include time abroad studying or teaching.

Types of degree

- You can choose to study straight languages or a closely related or combined subject, for example
- Modern and Medieval
- Combine with
 - Business
 - Philosophy
 - Maths
 - Politics
 - Literature

Entry Requirements

- A-levels (or equivalent) usually required
- An A level in your chosen language
- Useful to have
 - History
 - Politics
 - English literature

Biology degree modules

- Language
- Reading literature
- Syntax and vocabulary
- Translation
- Modern culture
- Gender, the novel and the récit
- Business Language
- Innovations in literature

Top 10 Universities for MFL

Complete University Guide 2020

Cambridge, Durham, Oxford, St Andrews, Kings College

Warwick, Exeter, Stirling, Glasgow – all very high student satisfaction scores

Lancaster, Bath, Sheffield, Kent - all with top graduate prospects

Many of our students choose

A combined degree

applications last year included:

- German and English Literature
- Modern Languages (French with German)
- International Management and Modern Languages - Spanish

Why not try a foundation degree..

Sheffield
ABB

A level grades
or BTEC equivalents

Warwick
AAA

Royal Holloway
BBB

Essex
(with foundation year)
DDD

.....or study in English abroad

European Studies (4 year)
The Hague University of Applied Sciences
Netherlands