

Student Guide to Mock Exam Fortnight

Monday 31 January to Friday 11 February

Key Facts

1. All A Level A2 courses, apart from Visual Arts, some A2 BTECs and some A1 courses will have a mock exam over the fortnight.
2. A1 Students and all BTECs – in some cases you may be sitting an exam during the A2 Mock Fortnight (for example A1 Double Maths students). In each case:
 - if you are an A1 student, you will not be on Study Leave and will attend your lessons as normal.
 - If you are an A2 student on a BTEC course, your lessons may still run that week and your teacher will let you know.
 - You should always sit a Mock Exam over attending a lesson and missing that lesson will NOT be an absence on your attendance record. Your teacher will give you precise details about any A1 mock exam, if you have one on your course.
3. All AM sessions will start at 9.00am; all PM sessions will start at 1.30pm, apart from Maths Single on Tuesday 1st February, which will start at 3.15pm.
4. You should aim to arrive at least 15 minutes before each scheduled start time.
5. You will need to bring a pen, and any other subject-specific equipment required.
6. More detailed guidance on exam rules will be distributed via Tutorial.
7. If you have any Exam Access Arrangements (extra time, word processor, scribe, etc) these should be detailed on your seating timetable.
8. Your teachers will be setting you work throughout the Exam fortnight and into the February half-term holiday in Teams Assignments. Exactly what this work is will largely depend on when your mock exam is taking place. For example, if you have an exam right at the end of the mock fortnight, it is likely that the work will involve a task to help with your revision. If your exam is at the beginning of the fortnight, the task might be to prepare for the next topic on the specification. Either way, your teachers will understand that this task will not be overwhelming and will not interfere with your revision for any of your subjects.
9. If you are unclear about anything here, make sure you ask your teacher, so that you are clear and do not miss any exams, lessons that you did need to go to or actions you need to take.

What do I need to do?

1. From Wednesday 12th January you will be able to check your timetable on Student Advantage to make sure that all the subjects you are expecting are there.
2. Check the Mock Exam Timetable below for your subjects' dates and times and add these to your phone/diary.
3. You should collect a paper copy of your exam schedule, which will have specific seating locations, from the Exams Team on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, 17th-19th January, between 10.00am and 2.15pm (location to be confirmed in Tutorial).
4. You will need to bring this, along with your college ID card with you to each exam.
5. Complete the work set over Study Leave by each of your teachers and make sure you submit this to your teacher when required.
